A Course on Energetic Anatomy, Ceremony, and Transformation

Glasgow • March 3 - 4, Sat. - Sun.

with

Kenneth Ray Stubbs, PhD

Fundamentals of Shamanism develops and trains your energies to function in some of the same ways shamans use. Conceptually, we go into an understanding of our energetic anatomy. The course includes clearing energy flows, balancing and intensifying energies, and building subtle energy “muscles” to facilitate healing and transformation.

(Ray will teach this course via SKYPE from Tucson, Arizona)

DATES: March 3 - 4, 2012    TIMES: Saturday and Sunday: 3:00 pm - 10:30 pm

LOCATION: Prestwick, Scotland

This is a 12-hour experiential training in some of the fundamental shamanic abilities that can result in transformation/healing. The techniques learned in this course are valuable for everyone in their personal lives and especially for practitioners of all kinds.

Ray came to an understanding of shamanic abilities from Native American medicine people (shamans). Being in ceremony with them and receiving healings from them, he perceived something deeper was happening energetically than in most of the somatic and psychological modalities he had experienced. The medicine people were able to direct their energies within him in ways very different than what most practitioners can do.

Instead of teaching the mind with information or the body with techniques, Fundamentals of Shamanism engages and develops your energy systems to function in some of these same ways as shamans. The healing and transformative results for your clients are deeper and more profound. We will use several energetic shamanic practices to develop these abilities, including focusing our energies with plants, animals, and crystals. (Note: this course does not teach traditional Native American ceremonies.)
